MUCH INTEREST IN I. & C. MEETING

Crowd Turns Out to Settle Question
Whether Effort Shall be Made for Extension.
THE PROPOSITION IS OUTLINED
Citizens Urged to Keep Promise and Make Building of Interurban Possible.

A good-sized, enthusiastic audience turned out this afternoon in the court house assembly room to determine what disposition should be made of the I. & C. proposal to extend the interurban to Cincinnati from Rushville through southern Rush county, providing free right-of-way could be obtained.

Much land has been donated for the right-of-way, but there still remains some that must be purchased. It was first planned to raise the money by popular subscription, and later suggested that a special election be called to vote a special tax to the interurban, as provided by law.

Late this afternoon the meeting had not decided which course to pursue. It was thought, however, that the sense of the meeting would be to circulate petitions at once and get the required number of signatures—twenty-five in each township—so that the petitions could be presented at the regular meeting of the commissioners Monday.

Citizens of Richland and Noble townships were to hold a meeting at New Salem last night to decide how they would handle the situation. The weather was inclement and the meeting was changed to yesterday afternoon, but not many attended. An effort was made to get a large number of the interested people to attend the meeting here this afternoon.

Will O. Feudner, former secretary of the Retail Merchants association, who had charge of the work of arousing interest in the meeting held this afternoon, stated the object of the meeting and reviewed the project up to the present.

"The object of the meeting," said Mr. Feudner, "regards the extension of the I. & C. to Brookville and Cincinnati from Rushville. When the proposition was first made to the citizens of southeastern Rush county, the I. & C. asked if free right-of-way would be granted in the event of the building of the line through that territory.

"We promised them they would find no obstacle in their path if they would go our way, and I believe we promised them our good will and patronage, besides the right-of-way. In fact, the I. & C. had not considered this route very seriously until the citizens of this and Franklin counties held a mass meeting here and invited the I. & C. directors and president. The officials were told a few things that should be considered in the Brookville.

"They consented to make a survey and found that a route through this territory was feasible. They have planned to build the line this way if we are in the same frame of mind we were when we promised them a free right-of-way.

"As I understand the case now, the I. & C. officials are negotiating with eastern capital for the bonding of the extension and hope to be ready to start the work of building in a very short time. Charles L. Henry, president of the road, left this morning for the east, presumably on this business.

"The incorporation and bonding of this branch of the I. & C. will take place more than likely in the next

HOLD ELECTION TO DETERMINE SITE

Milroy School Patrons Will Decide by Ballot Where Building is to Be Located.

SATURDAY IS THE DAY NAMED

An election will be held in Milroy Saturday to decide on a site for the new school building. It was first planned to erect the building on the site of the building which burned recently, but this met with opposition by those who demanded that the building be erected on the new addition east of Milroy. The agitation for and against the change in location became so strong that township trustee John Kinnett decided that the only way to satisfy all the patrons was to call an election and let the majority rule. Petitions have been circulated in Milroy by both factions and now the question will be left with the people. A definite location in the new addition east of Milroy has never been selected.

FAIR BILL FAILS IN LOWER HOUSE

Measure Which County Directors
Favor Lacks Constitutional Majority When Put to Vote

WILL BE PRESENTED AGAIN

Local Fair Association Has Made Repeated Attempts to Get Tax as Provided in Bill.

The lower house of the legislature in Indianapolis yesterday failed to pass the Isenbarger bill 50 to 48, which means life and death to many county fairs, and in which the directors and stockholders of the Rush county fair were very much interested. The bill would enable counties to levy an assessment of one cent on each one hundred dollars of taxable property to raise funds for county fair purposes.

There is a law in Indiana now which provides that county boards may levy such an assessment for county fairs if they deem it advisable and a profitable expenditure of legislature would make it incumbent on the county board to levy such a tax.

The bill is not dead by any means. It is supported by one of the most powerful lobbies in the legislature—the fair boards of every county in Indiana. The bill failed in obtaining a constitutional majority, not a majority of the vote of the house. Fifty votes were cast for it and forty-eight against it.

Rush county men interested in the county fair feel encouraged because the majority of the lower house was not against it. Indianapolis newspapers say that the author of the bill is going to demand another vote on it soon, possibly today. It was thought that many votes could be won over to the bill.

Directors of the Rush county fair feel that the bill is sure of passage in the senate. It will not be finally killed by the house until a majority will have voted against it. It can be put to a vote repeatedly if there is not a constitutional majority and still a majority of the members voting for it.

The same bill was before the last legislature. The fight for its passage was not conducted in the correct way, it is said, which accounted for it being defeated.

The Rush County Fair Association has made repeated efforts to get the county council to levy the tax which the present law allows, but does not make mandatory. The council has always refused on the theory that it would be taxing the people for the benefit of an institution that is privately owned. On the other hand, the directors always answered that all the people of Rush county were directly interested in the county fair and should help support it, because it is operated for the mutual benefit of all.

TO GIVE STAMPS REAL CASH VALUE

Bill Before Legislature Would Make Trading Coupons Redeemable in Money.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST HERE

Proposed Measure Provides Fine,
Upon Conviction, of Not Less
Than $50 or More Than $100

A bill has been introduced in the legislature that will attract attention from merchants and the people who have become infected with the trading stamp virus, and as the bill is likely to become a law, a knowledge of its provisions will be worth while. For the purpose of enlightening the public as to the intent of the bill, the following sections are reproduced:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That: No person shall sell or issue any stamp, trading stamp, cash discount stamp, check, ticket, coupon, or other similar device, which will entitle the holder thereof, on presentation thereof, either singly or in definite number, to receive, either directly from the vendor or indirectly through any other person, money or goods, wares or merchandise, unless each of said stamps, trading stamps, cash discount stamps, checks, tickets, coupons, or other similar devices, shall have legibly printed or written on the face thereof the redeemable value thereof in lawful money of the United States.

Section 3. Any person engaged in any trade, business or profession who shall distribute, deliver or present to any person dealing with him, in consideration of any article or thing purchased, any stamp, trading stamp, cash discount stamp, check, ticket, coupon, or other similar device, which will entitle the holder thereof, on presentation thereof, either singly or in definite number, to receive, either directly from the person issuing or selling the same, as set forth in Sec. 2 hereof, or indirectly from any other person, shall upon the refusal or failure of the said person issuing same to redeem the same as set forth in Sec. 2 hereof, be liable to the holder thereof for the face value thereof and shall, upon presentation of the same in lots or number aggregating, in money value, not less than 5 cents in each lot, redeem the same either in ware or merchandise or in lawful money of the United States, at the option of the holder thereof, at the value in lawful money printed on the face thereof.

Section 6. Any person, firm or corporation who shall violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined not less fifty dollars (50) nor more than one hundred dollars (100) for each offense.

Section 7. Whereas, an emergency exists for the immediate taking effect of this act, the same shall be in full force and effect from and after this passage.

O. C. NORRIS' BILLS HAVE ROUGH SLEDGING

Third One Killed by Committee in Legislature Sought to Exempt
Greek Fraternities.

FROM TAXATION ON HOUSES.

Representative O. C. Norris of this city has had sledding with the bills that he has introduced in the lower house of the legislature. Out of five that he has presented, three have been killed in committee and one has been withdrawn for "repairs," because it was introduced prematurely.

The latest effort of Representative Norris, which has been cast into the scrap heap, is a bill which sought to exempt Greek letter fraternity chapter houses from taxation. The other bills that never got out of the committee room, were one seeking to compel railroads to build cattle guards at private crossings, and one seeking to allow fertilizer salesmen the right to take a lien on property in payment for fertilizer. Another bill of his, providing that interurban motormen shall not be allowed to handle baggage has never been acted on by the committee. Still another providing that interurbans shall post the time of arrival and departure of all trains at all stops is still in committee. His road bill, prepared by Purdue university authorities, which aroused such adverse criticism, was withdrawn for some additions.

The remains of Miss Myrtle Orwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Orwin, who died yesterday in Indianapolis, will be brought here tomorrow morning for burial. The funeral services will be held tonight at the Orwin residence in North Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis.

WOULD INCREASE SALARY A THIRD

Measure to be Introduced in Legislature Seeks to Increase County
Auditors' Pay.

BILL'S LOCAL APPLICATION.

Passage Would Make A. R. Holden's
Salary $4,000 a Year—To Discontinue Some Fees.

A bill will be introduced in the legislature in Indianapolis asking for an increase in the salaries of county auditors in Indiana. According to the scale which will be included in the bill, the increase would be over one-third more than their present salaries.

Under the present salary act, County Auditor A. R. Holden receives $2,400 a year. The bill asks that his salary be raised to $4,000, an increase of $1,600 annually. There is little doubt but that the duties of a county auditor are very strenuous and that they have been increased since the passage of the last salary act.

But in addition to their salary, the statutes set forth that county auditors shall receive a number of other fees. The present bill will not operate to repeal or affect any of the provisions of any existing laws, providing compensation to county auditors for services to be performed by them in connection with highway proceedings, nor with compensation for duties in connection with any city.

The county auditor received a salary, of which the maximum is six hundred dollars a year, for acting as secretary to the county council. He received fifty dollars a year for acting as secretary to the county board of finance. The auditor also received a per diem as a member of the county board of review.

The acts of 1909 also provided that the county auditor should receive compensation for work in connection with the city taxes. For this work the cities of the fifth class, to which class Rushville belongs, the limit to be charged by the auditor is $300.

For making road lists and also for certain work in connection with assessors' books, the auditor receives a compensation. In some counties one or the other of these yielded nothing to the auditor during the last year, in others it ran to $400 or $500. The bill is intended to abolish all payments except the highway fees, and compensation from the cities.

Born to the wife of M. E. Willis, in West Seventh street, a boy.

How to Insure Your Pocketbook

To do that you simply make sure of getting the highest quality for the most reasonable price. You yourself cannot be familiar with the values of all the necessities you buy, and so you must rely on what others tell you of the good points of the various articles.

Insure your pocketbook by taking the word of the man who has his all at stake—the manufacturer himself. If he tells you an untruth through his advertisement you will not continue to use his goods, and his profits will fall off. In time his misleading statements to buyers will drive him out of business.

You can insure your pocketbook with the help of THE DAILY REPUBLICAN—get quality and price and convenience with small effort. Rely upon the advertisements of THE DAILY REPUBLICAN'S advertisers. You can in that way put yourself out of the power of unscrupulous manufacturers, and be guided to the stores of reliable dealers. It pays in time, money, and trouble saved to read THE DAILY REPUBLICAN'S advertisements closely and constantly every day.

MORE SPEED IS NOW THE ORDER

Indiana Solons Being Urged to Get Busy.

PLATFORM MEASURES PRESS

Under Instructions of Caucus Chairman and Leaders of Both Houses, Hoosier Legislators Promise to Expedite the Business of the Session, With Particular Reference to the So-Called Administration Measures.

Indianapolis, Jan. 29.—It is time, so Democratic caucus leaders in the senate have come to the conclusion, to get much busier on Democratic platform measures, and from now on an organized effort will be made to get platform bills on the move. Senator Curtis, Democratic floor leader, said definite progress along this line may be expected from now on. Nothing much has been done yet toward simplifying and perfecting the registration law and toward strengthening the primary laws. The caucus has appointed committees to take care of these matters.

A bill for a big increase in the salaries of all the county auditors of the state will be introduced in the house by Representative Ensle. A committee of county auditors met at the Marion county courthouse and after going over the situation, decided to ask the legislature to make the increases. All auditors had furnished the legislative committee of the auditor's association with a statement as to the business of their offices, and an estimate as to what they regarded as a fair salary for the office.

The recall was exercised in the senate by Senator Akin, chairman of the committee on county and township business, who called back to committee the Kolsem bill, which would legalize the employment and acts of deputy assessors in Vigo county. After the Vigo county bill was reported favorably by the committee facts came out which made it look so bad that the committee desired to reconsider it.

Housing Bill Advanced.

The housing bill, which was drawn at the instance of Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, has been advanced to engrossment in the senate. Other bills advanced to engrossment were as follows: Authorizing the employment of county detectives; for the substitution of electrocution for hanging; authorizing the appropriation by county commissioners of money for county fairs; for the appointment of road supervisors by township trustees, and for systematic plumbing and inspection.

Favorable report was made on the Van Nuys bill which requires corporations or individuals seeking franchises to publish one week before the final hearing the full text of the franchises, and the publication of amended sections of franchises. Senator Ratts' rat day bill was favorably reported by the committee on criminal code and was not opposed. The Curtis bill for uniform text books in high schools was reported favorably. The Hauck bill providing for the separation of grade crossings outside of cities and towns on order of the railway commission, was advanced to engrossment. Senator Kistler's bill providing that legal publications, now made in weekly papers, shall be made either in daily or weekly papers, was passed, as were bills for the establishment of playgrounds in cities of the second class; for the payment of expenses of prosecuting attorneys traveling to take depositions; creating separate circuits for Gibson and Posey counties; taking Fort Wayne out of the Evansville population class so as to leave the present method of electing school commissioners in force; prohibiting the use of ferrets in the hunting of rabbits and other animals, and for the immediate cleaning of milk, cream and ice cream containers after they are emptied.

Senator Stotsenburg withdrew his bill providing for woman suffrage on school questions and substituted a bill which seeks to make women eligible to election as school trustees in all cities and towns of the state, but leaves out any suffrage provisions.

Mothers' Pensions Debated.

Representative Sands' mothers' pension bill provoked vigorous debate in the house. The majority of the committee on Judiciary B had reported against the bill, the minority for it. Attacking the measure on the ground that it would create a condition similar to that in Kentucky, where, he said, some families received as much as $1,200 a year for the care of imbecile children, Representative Voris declared that under the present system poor children are well cared for in Indiana. The majority report was substituted for the majority, and the bill on motion of its author was amended so as to provide that in order to be entitled to the payments the father, mother or parents must show that he, she or they had been residing in the state one year, and in the county six months prior to the filing of a petition for relief. The bill was then advanced to engrossment. The Adams bill to amend the registration act was amended so as to permit candidates for judgeships to contribute to campaign funds.

Among the bills passed in the house were the Tingle inheritance tax measure and the Adam bill amending the present corrupt practices act.

ENDED THE INCIDENT WITHOUT BLOODSHED

Six Aces Show Up In This Poker Game.

New York, Jan. 29.—A game of poker "for blood" and which in other days with some players might have drawn blood, was played on the Atlantic transport liner Minneapolis, just arrived from Southampton. Four of the passengers, all wealthy cattlemen, were James R. Hastings and Jesse Harbone of Butte, Mont., Francis McDermott of Austin, Tex., and Charles B. Curley of Kansas City. With two other passengers the four were playing on Monday night. A new deck of cards was called for and it was Harbone's deal. He shuffled the cards, passed them for the cut, and dealt. There had been a dollar limit on the game, but just before this hand was played the limit had been taken off. Mr. McDermott opened the pot with a $2 bet. This was raised by the cattlemen and the other players stayed for the draw, by which time each man had $60 in the pot. After the draw the two strangers threw their hands into the discard and the four cattlemen kept raising one another until there was close to $1,000 in the pot.

Harbone laid down three queens and a pair. McDermott had an ace high straight, Curley three tens and a pair of aces, and Hastings three aces and a pair of jacks.

Six aces on the table! The four men looked intently at the four hands and then at one another. Then someone laughed.

"I've seen the time in Montana," said Mr. Hastings, "when there would have been some shooting over a showdown like that."

"Texas had a fairly good reputation for such things, too," returned Mr. McDermott.

The players investigated and discovered that in the manufacture of the deck the extra aces had been slipped in instead of other cards, for there were only fifty-two cards in it.

The players were "sports" and divided the pot.

Rumors Regarded as True.

Vienna, Jan. 29.—The newspapers give prominence to rumors which professedly have been received from Constantinople to the effect that a counter revolution has broken out. Ahmed Abuk Pasha, with the Fourth army corps, is reported to be marching on the capital from Tchataldja, where a bloody conflict is said to have occurred between the adherents of Nazim Pasha and the Young Turks. Confirmation of these stories is unobtainable, but the newspapers regard them as true.

Former President of Hanover Dead.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The Rev. Dr. Daniel W. Fisher, father of Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior department, and former president of Hanover college, is dead here of heart failure, after a sickness of several months. He was seventy-five years old. The funeral will be held at Hanover, Ind.

Broke Through the Ice.

Michigan City, Ind., Jan. 29.—Paul, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, fell through the ice and was drowned in a pond.

SMASH WINDOWS RIGHT AND LEFT

London Suffragettes On Another Rampage.

BARRED FROM PARLIAMENT

Repulse of a Determined Band of Militant Suffragettes Who Sought Admission Into the House of Commons Served to Inflame Feminine Passions to a White Heat and Stone-Throwing Crusade Quickly Was Resumed.

London, Jan. 29.—Because of the withdrawal of the franchise bill, the militant suffragettes started in earnest last evening to carry on their warfare against society and property.

Although the police had made elaborate preparations to prevent the women from carrying out their plans, the women succeeded in smashing many windows.

Twenty-three women who took an active part in the stone throwing were arrested. It is believed if anyone is sentenced at all for the participation in the activities of the night, that she will be doubtlessly released, as has been the custom heretofore, when they started starvation tactics.

At last night's session of the house of commons a delegation of the Women's Social and Political Union made a violent attempt to enter the house of commons. Mrs. Drummond, whom her followers call the "General," marched at the head of the delegation from a neighboring hall. There were a score of women among the marchers, including Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, the younger daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst. The deputation insisted upon an immediate admission and tried to push through. Arguments and coaxing by the police were in vain. Then the women were told that if they persisted in trying to force their way through they would be arrested.

Mrs. Drummond, who is a stout woman, thereupon thrust her heavy bulk against the police. Her colleagues rushed in and pushed her forward in a flying wedge with the result that there was a highly exciting and lively scrimmage. Mrs. Drummond, Sylvia Pankhurst and four others were arrested. As Mrs. Drummond was being led away she shouted, "Now, you women, smash windows, destroy property!"

The women then began throwing stones at the windows of the home office, of the treasury and other government departments. The smashing of the window panes attracted a hustling mob of toughs, who also engaged in disorders. The toughs made so much trouble for the suffragettes that many of the women gladly accepted escorts of police to save them from the violence of the disorderly male element. In the meantime isolated groups of women tramped through the downpour of rain to the main West End shopping district, smashing windows wherever they had an opportunity. In their sensational tour of destruction some of the women poured corrosive liquids into mail boxes.

The women claim to be well pleased with the result. They claim that the house of commons paid them the greatest compliment in their career by rising at least two hours before the usual time of adjournment in order to escape what they call their just vengeance.

FAIR VICTIM OF A RUNAWAY

Girl Companion of President's Daughter Suffers a Broken Arm.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the president, was a witness to an exciting runaway which resulted in one of her riding companions and closest friends being thrown from her horse and suffering a broken arm. The horse dashed into a streetcar and was instantly killed.

Miss Taft, accompanied by Miss Martha Bowers, daughter of the late solicitor general; Dr. Cary Grayson, a White House naval aide, and Miss Isabel Vincent, Miss Taft's house guest from St. Paul, were enjoying a cross-country ride. Miss Bowers's horse became unmanageable and Dr. Grayson, fearing for her safety, suggested that they exchange mounts. Miss Bowers, being one of the best known horsewomen in the capital, declined the offer.

Coming down Sixteenth street hill on the ride home, Miss Bowers's horse suddenly got beyond her control and dashed wildly down the hill. She tugged on the reins, but to no avail. The others of the party, including Miss Taft, were outdistanced so that although they spurred on to Miss Bowers's assistance, they were a block behind when U street was reached by the runaway. A closed car was crossing when the horse with the young woman struggling gamely on its back, came along. Miss Bowers, fearing the horse would dash in front of the car, managed to swerve his course so that he plunged into the rear door.

Another Victim of Rabies.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 29.—Harry Lawlor, aged five, is dead of hydrophobia at Sanford. The boy was bitten in November. The dog was killed immediately, but nothing was done to ascertain if it was afflicted with rabies. The boy's first symptoms appeared Saturday, too late for Pasteur treatment.

WANTS BABY SENT BY MAIL.

Pathetic Inquiry as to Parcel Post Worries Postmaster General.

The mailing of babies by parcel post is a real infant industry which Postmaster General Hitchcock is asked to foster.

In the circumstances of his bachelorhood Mr. Hitchcock is considering seriously the calling into consultation of experts in the transportation of babies, as a letter which he received presents to him a mail problem with which he is quite unfamiliar. To add to his embarrassment the letter contains a note of genuine pathos, which appeals strongly to the postmaster general. This is the letter, identically as it was phrased and punctuated:

Fort McPherson, Ga.
Postmaster General,
Washington, D. C.—Sir: I have been corresponding with a party in Pa about getting a baby to raise (our home being without one). May I ask you what specifications to use in wrapping so it (baby) would comply with regulations and be allowed shipment by parcel post as the express co are to rough in handling. Yours

The name signed to the letter is withheld at the request of Mr. Hitchcock.

As babies, in the opinion of the postmaster general, do not fall within the category of bees and bugs, the only live things that may be transported by mail, he fears he may not be of assistance to his correspondent.

Mrs. A. R. Tabor, of Crider, Mo., had been troubled with sick headache for about five years, when she began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. She has taken taken two bottles of them and they have cured her. Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach for which these tablets are especially intended. Try them, get well and stay well. Sold by all dealers.

THE GOSPEL OF THE SUGAR BEET

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley Preaches It to Farmers.

A WONDERFUL TRANSFORMER.

"Wherever the Sugar Beet is Cultivated," Dr. Wiley Declares, "the Farmers Are All Prosperous"—America Fully Fifty Years Behind Europe.

"Farming practices in vogue upon a great majority of the cultivated tracts in America are obsolete," declares Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, former chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture. "In agriculture we are fully fifty years behind Europe, and the better utilization of our farm resources is one of the most important problems before the country."

"Old fashioned, slipshod methods of producing wheat and cotton and corn are still in vogue in over 95 per cent of the country devoted to these industries," said Dr. Wiley, continuing his impeachment of our lax farming methods. "The growing of these crops until within a few years could not have been ranked as agriculture, but should have been described as highway robbery of the soil. As a result the average production per acre of these crops has fallen to a minimum."

"Farming, for one thing, must be made more attractive. It should be done as our farmers learn more thoroughly the principles of intensive cultivation and get a knowledge of the methods of feeding the soil and of the rotation of crops."

"To this end I have been preaching for the past thirty years the gospel of the sugar beet."

"The production of the sugar beet requires the highest style of intensive culture that science has been able to suggest. The principles of feeding the sugar crops, the methods of culture and handling, the attention and skill of the workers, are such as to create in every field and factory devoted to sugar culture an agricultural experiment station of the highest type. The soil and climatic conditions in the greater part of the United States are thoroughly favorable to beet culture, and America is the greatest sugar market in the world."

"In the case of the sugar beet the crops which are grown in rotation with it yield very much larger returns than when the old fashioned system of agriculture prevailed. The reflex action of this influence becomes a benefit to American agriculture the value of which it would be difficult to measure in dollars and cents."

"Wherever the sugar beet is cultivated the farmers are all prosperous, no matter what kind of other crops they raise. The beet generally improves the productiveness of the soil in all kinds of agriculture. It causes the employment of more labor and indirectly benefits commerce and transportation and produces in every community conditions of prosperity in agriculture which it would be difficult to bring about in any other way."

"The culture of the beet brings into the neighborhood the large sugar factory using fuel and other raw material, with its complement of laborers and experts, thus giving a better and more profitable market to the surrounding farmers for all their products."

"While there has been a general tendency toward the reduction of tariff duties, this tendency has not reached in many cases the extent of the abolition of import duties altogether. In any changes of this sort let as much as possible be saved to the farmer. In view of the great importance of domestic sugar production to the prosperity of the American farmer, if tariff adjustments are to be made, I believe that this should be the last rather than the first point at which to remove the customs duty."

"One of the best things about sugar beet culture from the point of view of agricultural improvement is that it fits in so perfectly with dairying and stock growing. It is, of course, one of the elementary facts of practical dairying that the rearing and keeping of live stock afford the easiest, cheapest and most natural means of improving the fertility of the soil."

CARL G. FISHER

On Trial at Indianapolis In Suit for Breach of Promise.

BREACH OF PROMISE CASE DRAWS CROWD

Carl Fisher Contesting Divorced Woman's Suit.

Indianapolis, Jan. 29.—Men three rows deep stood in the gallery of the courtroom when Gertrude W. Hassler, a divorced woman, who is suing Carl G. Fisher, president of the Prest-O-Lite company, for $500,000 for alleged breach of promise and contract, told her story on the witness stand in Judge Orbison's room of superior court and the floor of the courtroom was crowded, more than half of the spectators being women.

Miss Hassler told how, she said, Mr. Fisher had refused to take her automobile riding one night in 1909. The next day, she said, she learned he had married another.

"I darned his socks," said Miss Hassler in telling of what she had done for Fisher in the time they were going together. She exhibited jewelry she said Fisher had given to her. At one time, she said, she was staying at the home of friends who lived in the west part of the city. A terrible blizzard, she testified, made traveling very difficult, but about 10 o'clock that night Fisher came to see her, saying it had taken him two hours to get through the blizzard and that she was the only girl on earth he would go through a storm to see.

When they had talked of marriage at another time, she said, Fisher said they would have a castle in the mountains and that they would have a grand piano and a big fireplace.

"And I," she reported Fisher as saying, "will sit by the fire and spit on the logs and watch it sizzle."

HELP FOR GENERAL SICKLES

Harburger Is Confident the Money Will Be Raised.

New York, Jan. 29.—Sheriff Harburger has told all those who have offered money to help General Daniel E. Sickles to send their checks to Comptroller Sohmer at Albany. The sheriff says he is confident that the $23,000 necessary to release the hero of Gettysburg from the claim of the state will be raised in two weeks.

Several men have offered checks for $100, and the sheriff says that men have been collecting among persons who could not afford to give much, but whose combined offerings totalled up to respectable looking figures.

"I have been astonished," said the sheriff, "to find that not a millionaire has come forward with an offer of a substantial sum. Here this old man helped to preserve the Union, and these men have profited by it, and not one of them has given more than $100. I expected to have several sums of $1,000 offered."

Toll Gates, Rather.

The city of Rushville might as well build toll gates outside the city limits on all the important roads leading here and charge an insignificant fee for every person who rode in or out of the city, as sit idle and silent under the policy which the Rushville Co-Operative Telephone company has adopted in regard to the smaller telephone companies over the county.

The effect would be the same, and to all appearance the intent would be the same. Under the present system, whereby subscribers to the minor systems have to pay a toll every time they talk here, or else take the flat rate of fifty cents a month, Rushville people are inviting the county people to communicate with other places when they want a favor, or want to spend their money.

This is pre-eminently a farming community. The business men of Rushville have to depend on the confidence and business which they receive from the confines of the city of Rushville alone, not near so many places of business could be operated at a living profit.

And in addition, Rushville should have the confidence of the farming community about. This city should make its guests welcome and make people from the rural district relish a visit here. In order to establish a friendly feeling between the city and the country districts, it is due the county people that they be extended some courtesies.

One of the courtesies that they have a right to demand and is their due is that they be given the privilege of being passed through the Rushville exchange when they desire to talk to a Rushville telephone subscriber or to one which can be reached without passing through the Rushville exchange.

Instead of inviting them to be in closer communication with us, we charge them for talking to us. If there are to be any charges, we are the ones who should stand them. The people of Rushville, especially the business men who are directly interested, should be willing to stand a little raise in telephone rates rather than excommunicate the rural communities.

Shelby county offers the best example in this part of Indiana. That county has a most compact telephone system. If a person has a telephone in Shelby county, he can talk free of charge to any other point in the county. Even the people of Manilla, which is in Rushville's territory, have a free service to Shelbyville or to any point in Shelby county. Shelby county is even going out of its way to extend its courtesies.

Green Fields Far Away.

Selling farms by mail is an industry noticeably on the decline, various exposures of the facts behind glowing magazine advertisements having served usefully, aided by the investigations by the postoffice inspectors which have alarmed the unscrupulous men who promised little earthly paradises, some for "seventeen cents a day," and others for a similarly easy sum. Emerson Hough, the famous novelist, made an investigation of many of the "farms by mail" schemes and related many ingenious processes for separating the unwary from the cash, his conclusions being summed up in the warning: "Never buy land or anything else without first carefully investigating the character of the men with whom you are going to do business." The state of Michigan has been a great sufferer from the operations of land sharks who sell to the ignorant and trusting the poorest land in the state as "farms," many victims having found that their purchases, unless a prohibitive amount was spent by them, were worthless as farms. In other states land grants and clouded titles are also used as a cloak for nefarious real estate schemes. A year or so ago there was a concern operating in Ohio which sold Texas lands that very likely the seller had never seen. He invented towns that did not exist, and sometimes gave county recorders in Texas trouble in trying to find lands described as lying within their county lines.

(Muncie Press.)

Senator Beveridge not long ago wrote a two-page article for the Saturday Evening Post about the future of the "Progressive" party without mentioning Col. Roosevelt. The colonel comes back with a two-page article in Colliers in which he attacks the cigar making sweat shops. His investigations were made at the instance, the colonel states, of the Cigarmakers' union. At the international convention of this organization in Baltimore in August, it will be remembered, the attention of the people was called to the fact that Senator Beveridge has for years given the use of his name to a cigar made in one of the worst sweat shops of the character described by Colonel Roosevelt. The war that is going on between the colonel and the senator under the covers is certainly strenuous, and somebody is going to get kicked out of bed sooner or later.

SMOKE STACK TOO SMALL

For Size of Boilers at the County Heating Plant.

The board of county commissioners were to meet this afternoon with the contractor, who placed the new boilers in the county heating plant and try to determine on some plan to remedy the defects. Since the plant has been completed it was found that the stack is not large enough to carry off the smoke. The stack is twenty-two inches in circumference and the pipe from the boilers to the stack is thirty inches. The contractor believes that an iron stack will have to be erected along side of the present brick stack in order to get rid of the smoke.

PENSIONS FROM CAPITOL

Indianapolis District Office Will Close Up Business Friday.

After next Friday all war veterans will receive their pensions direct from Washington, D. C. This is the day that the pension office in Indianapolis will close. For years local veterans have been receiving their pensions through this office. Recently the system was changed and all vouchers will be certified from the United States capitol. The change is expected to be helpful in simplifying the pension department. There will be less "red tape" for veterans.

THAW OUT!

New Castle Times: The Rushville Republican says town growth is a science. Having had some experience in growing towns, we would suggest that growth is simply a thawing out on the part of several hundred citizens who have money, and giving of their means to locate factories. And we do not mean the rich men, for the town that waits for these things to be done by the fellows that are on Easy street will die of dry rot. Besides, the fellows on Easy street do not need the growth so much as the fellows who are still figuring on the financial problem.

CONVENTIONS WILL BE NO MORE

If Representative Jones' Radical Primary Election Measure Passes the Legislature.

FOLLOWS THE WISCONSIN LAW

Nomination of Elective, and Delegates to National Conventions Would be by Direct Vote.

Declaring that if the Indiana legislature really desires to let the people rule they will pass his bill, Representative Jones of Marshall county has introduced a direct primary bill, which will make party caucuses and nominating conventions a thing of the past.

The measure follows the Oregon and Wisconsin primary laws but contains several features that are original with Mr. Jones.

One of the latter is the plan provided for adopting party platforms. It stipulates that on the fourth Tuesday in September candidates for state offices and the general assembly who were nominated at the preceding primary, together with the hold-over senators, shall meet in the capital and formulate party platforms.

The nominations of all elective, and delegates to national conventions, shall be by direct vote of the electors. Also it gives them an opportunity to express a direct preference between candidates for presidential nominations. Provision is made for a preference vote on candidate for United States senator.

Parties receiving less than 10 per cent. of the total vote at the last general election are exempted from the provisions of the primary law. Further it provides that the general election law shall apply to the conduct of primary elections, which shall be held on registration day—the first Saturday in May.

Each elector is given the right to cast a first and second choice vote. This is to prevent the nomination of any candidate by a minority of all votes cast. Any candidate that receives a majority of first choice votes is declared the nominee for that office. If no candidate has a majority of first choice votes the name of the one having the least number of first choice votes is dropped from the list and the second choice votes cast by his supporters are added to the first choice votes of the remaining candidates for whom they were cast. If no candidate then has a majority the same process is repeated until the votes of one candidate are a majority of the whole number.

To prevent any candidate from having an advantage through securing first place on the ballots, the bill provides that the names be printed in rotation, each candidate appearing at the head of the ticket on an equal number of ballots.

FANCY PRICES FOR HOGS

At C. L. Tevis' Mule-Footed Hog Sale Held in St. Paul.

A large crowd attended the sale of forty-five head of mule-footed hogs belonging to C. L. Tevis, of Rush county, held yesterday at the Charlie Thompson barn at St. Paul, and the prices were fancy to say the least, says the Greensburg News. The hogs sold from $20 to as high as $220 apiece. Mule-footed hogs, which in all appearance, with the exception that they have a solid hoof, are practically the same as others, yet they demand a higher price from the fact that they are said to be cholera-proof. One thing certain is that the large packing houses of the cities will pay a higher price for them than they will for other breeds.

HAS SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL

Rev. F. B. Stearns is Home From Parker City, Pa.

The Rev. F. B. Stearns has returned from Parker City, Pa., where he conducted a revival meeting in one church there. Parker City is a hundred miles from Pittsburgh and in the center of the oil district. A week ago Sunday, there were twenty-five conversions, fifteen of whom were men who went forward at the men's meeting. Two hundred pledges to give up worldly amusements, the evangelist says, were signed, and on temperance day, all but three men in the audience promised to work against the renewal of saloon licenses.

Amusements

The Palace will show a comedy entitled "The Haunted Bachelor," for the first picture tonight. "In the San Fernando Valley" is an interesting scenic production. Miss Nellie Wooster will sing tonight.

The Princess offers the usual two pictures tonight. "The Romance of a Rickshaw" is the title of the first, a Vitagraph drama featuring Lillian Walker. "A Fugitive from Justice," is a Lubin drama. Tomorrow night "The Dawning," a two-reel Vitagraph drama will be shown.

"The Rose of Kildare," a pretty story of Irish life, based on the insurrection of 1798, will be the attraction three days at the English opera house, Indianapolis, beginning January 30th, with a matinee Saturday. The story relates the adventures of Gerald O'Donnell, a dashing young Irish cavalier, who becoming involved in the insurrection, goes to France to enlist the aid of the French government in the rebel cause. He is successful and almost succeeds in landing a cargo of arms when a storm drives the ship ashore on the Irish coast. Then follows a battle of wits between O'Donnell and his rival in love, Mr. Brian Burke, who is also opposed to him politically, but in the end O'Donnell gains the upper hand and Burke is punished. This pretty story of love and war is acted by a capable company.

HELD SUCCESSFUL SALE

W. E. Harton and Son's second annual sale of pedigreed Chester White hogs, held this afternoon, in the Davis sale barn, was well attended and the stock brought good prices. ## CHAPTER XXI.

Rich and Poor Alike.

He lay staring at the window while Bartlett's and the general's snores rose and fell, mingling in a steadily growing crescendo of sound. As he stared, he noticed suddenly a faint glow in the east. It was too early for daybreak and the glow was of a different color, brighter, more orange in tint. He watched it a while without comprehending, waiting until it was time for him to steal away from Billy, back to the road again. And as he watched, he was brought to quick consciousness of what it was by a tiny crimson flame which appeared in the distance and was gone.

The Watermelon leaped to the window. The barn, which, fortunately, was unlike Maine barns, stood some little way from the house instead of being attached to it. With a mighty burst of flames the roof caught from the sides, which had been slowly smoldering. Every moment the flames mounted higher and higher, fanned by a bit of a wind that had arisen when the sun went down. The place was filled with the summer hay, and even as the Watermelon took in the scene, he knew that there was no hope to do more than to save the live stock, if they could do that.

Turning he aroused the general and Bartlett.

"Get up," he whispered, not to disturb the girls, "the barn's on fire."

Bartlett was up and half in his clothes before the general had opened his eyes. The Watermelon had already slipped quietly from the room.

"Fire," cried the general hoarsely, at last awake. Then he swore.

"My car!"

"Quick," snapped Bartlett. "The gasoline—"

"There was no gasoline," said the general sadly, as one would talk about a loved and dying friend. He turned mournfully from the window.

The fire had gained too much headway to leave the slightest possibility of saving the barn. The farmer, with the help of the Watermelon, Bartlett and the general, had barely time to lead out the horses and turn the cows into a temporary shelter. When that was done there was nothing more that could be done but to watch the walls crumble and the roof fall in a shower of sparks and a roar of flames, deafening and dancing in a mad riot of destruction. All night the fire burned and all night the four men and the three women turned their efforts to protect the house.

The general, by right and instinct.

took command. He formed a bucket brigade, stationing the Watermelon on the roof, at one end of the line, and the girls and the farmer's wife at the well to fill the buckets at the other end of the line. They worked hard and quietly, as people work when face to face with the grim forces of nature. Under the general's able management the few sparks which did threaten were quickly extinguished and save for a slight scorching here and there the house was safe. In the excitement no one but the general thought of the general's car.

The cold, gray streaks of dawn found them worn out, excited and hungry. Unable to console the farmer and his wife, the five drew in a semi-circle around the smoldering heap which had been the barn, and forlornly watched the last tiny flames licking around the twisted, blackened ruin that had once been a motor-car.

"Gone," said the general sadly.

And Billy sniffed.

"Better Alphonse had taken it," lamented Henrietta.

"What shall we do now?" asked Bartlett.

It was Saturday and Batchelor would not be able to reach New York now no matter what happened. He had won, the ring was safe, but he turned sadly to the general, and laid his hand kindly on his old friend's shoulder. "Hard luck, man," said he. "Hard luck."

"We will have to go home," said Henrietta dully.

"We have no money," replied the general quietly, unmoved by his penniless condition, thinking only of the motor-car that was no more.

"I have a little," said Henrietta. "About six dollars."

"We owe at least all of that here for supper and rooms," said Bartlett.

Henrietta glanced from one to the other, then laughed, a gay little bubble of mirth. They had no money, but what did that matter? What did anything matter when one loved and is loved? She felt guilty because she was not sorrier over the loss of the car, and she patted the general lovingly on the shoulder.

"Cheer up, daddy, we haven't a cent, none of us," she crooned.

"We can telegraph," suggested Billy.

"From where?" asked Bartlett shortly.

"Why, we can drive somewhere where we can," returned Billy desperately, under her father's calm scrutiny of amusement.

"Drive what?" asked Bartlett.

"A horse," said Henrietta mildly.

"What horse?" questioned Bartlett.

"There are two. The farmer wants them both to help clear up and go to a neighbor's for assistance. What shall we drive?"

"Shank's mare," said Henrietta. "At the nearest farm, we can get a team and drive to some town where we can telegraph."

Bartlett and Billy agreed. The general said nothing. There was nothing to say. The dream of his heart, the occupation of his days, was gone. What was there to say?

The Watermelon also was silent. He felt that he could not leave them, now that they were again in trouble.

When they reached the town and had telegraphed, he would go—back to the road. He was chewing a straw, hands in his pockets, gazing with the others in dull apathy at the remains of the car, and he raised his head instinctively to read the sky for approaching storms. There would be a moon that night and a good breeze, which would make walking easy.

"Hungry?" asked Billy gaily, smiling at him, her eyes asking what the matter was.

"I'm always hungry, Billy," said he and joined the general on the way to the house.

Billy stood a moment, hurt and flushed, then she followed the others in to breakfast.

The farmer's wife had made some hot coffee, strong and black, and fried some bacon, and with thick slices of bread and butter, they all ate ravenously at the bare deal table in the kitchen, with no pretense whatever of tablecloth or napkins. The Watermelon and the farmer's wife stood alone in the kitchen after the others had left and looked down kindly at her with the camaraderie felt only by one unfortunate in trouble for another in a like place.

"It's—hard on you," he said.

"And on him," said the woman. "All the hay was just in."

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures—" murmured the Watermelon laconically, instinctively turning to the Bible on every occasion. "Pity you aren't a man. Then you could chuck the whole show and hit the road with me. I'm stony broke, too."

He patted her shoulder gently and tears leaped into the woman's tired eyes. She cried a bit and he soothed her softly as one would soothe a tired child.

"Those others," said she, wiping her eyes on her coarse apron, "they are kind, but they don't understand."

"They mean well," said the Watermelon, "but you have to go through the mill yourself, to do well. I know what poverty means. Its ways ain't always pleasantness by a doggone sight."

VINOL HELPS OLD PEOPLE

Here is Proof That It Creates Strength.

So many cases like this are constantly coming to our attention that we publish it for the benefit of others: Mrs. James McCormick of Cohoes, N. Y., says: "My mother is an elderly lady and after having pneumonia she did not seem to recover her strength. She was so weak it was as much as she could do to get from her room into the living room. Her strength seemed to be all gone. I commenced to give her Vinol and in less than a week she was like a new woman. She had regained her strength so she could get around anywhere."

It is the medicinal curative elements of the cod livers without oil aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which are contained in Vinol that makes it so efficient in such cases.

If you have an aged father, mother or anyone in your family who needs a strength-creating tonic, try Vinol on our offer to give back your money if it fails to benefit. F. B. Johnson & Co., druggists, Rushville, Indiana.

GRAY HAIR TURNS ITS NATURAL COLOR AFTER APPLYING SAGE TEA.

Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens
Beautifully and Takes Off
Dandruff.

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.

WHY NOT MAKE OUR OWN SUGAR?

Would Save $100,000,000
Yearly, Says Secretary Wilson.

SUGAR BEETS THE REMEDY.

We Could Raise Enough of Them In
One State, Declares the Secretary of Agriculture, to Supply the Needs of the Whole Nation.

By JAMES WILSON,
Secretary of Agriculture.

One would think that we had enough sunshine and wind and rain in this country for all our needs, but at present we are paying out to foreign nations the good round sum of $100,000,000 each year for these things. This amount slips away from us for our annual importations of sugar, which comes simply from the carbon dioxide of the atmosphere. There is no reason why we should not save this amount for our own people, our farmers and laborers, and so on. We could grow enough sugar beets in a single state to supply the needs of the entire nation. I hope some day we shall grow all the sugar we need right here at home. But at present we are paying this enormous sum each year to the cane producer in the tropics, employing the cheapest labor under a foreign flag.

When I first entered the cabinet as Secretary of Agriculture under President McKinley in 1897 I had been connected with the Iowa State Agricultural college for six years, and out there we had made experiments which taught us the great value of the sugar beet not only for its sugar, but as an aid to the other crops and in its by-products as a food for the stock.

We made experiments with all sorts of root crops—potatoes, sugar beets, turnips, and so on—to ascertain which would be the most profitable for the Iowa farmers and dairymen. We had a large herd of dairy cows, and we tested these different vegetables on the cows to learn their effect in the production of milk and butter. We found that we could not get good results from turnips, potatoes and cab-beets sent back to us for testings.

At the same time we started encouraging beet growing in the north we began to stimulate the growing of rice in the south. And I anticipated that by this time our farmers would be growing enough of each of these products for our needs. But, while they grow today substantially as much rice as is consumed in the United States, the beet crop furnishes only a small proportion of our sugar. It is more difficult to educate our farmers to beet raising. It is a more complicated form of activity.

Last year our sugar beet crop netted $95,455 tons of sugar, worth $65,505,000. Of this the farmers received about $26,350,000 for the beets, a fraction over 40 per cent. The beet tops brought $3 an acre, amounting to $1,358,478; the pulp (left after the sugar is extracted from the beets) was worth $3,633,108 and the molasses, a by-product of the sugar, $1,211,036. So the total value of the crop was over $70,000,000.

There is no more profitable crop than the sugar beet.

CITY MAIDENS WANT ONLY
MEN EARNING $10,000.

Canvass of Girls Shows How Cost of Marriage Has Risen.

Any bachelor who is contemplating marrying on a salary or income that does not reach the $10,000 figure may as well abandon the idea, for the modern city girl has decided that she cannot possibly live comfortably on less than this amount.

In an address before the New York City Mothers' club at the Astor hotel Miss Angenette Perry said that she had been collecting statements from representative young girls, many of whom were just out of college, on the cost of living.

"I asked groups of girls what they considered the necessary income to start life on and was horrified to find that the average was $10,000," she said.

"Many of these girls told me that after carefully estimating the cost of maintaining a home they had arrived at the conclusion that less than $10,000 would mean living without some of the comforts so essential to their happiness. These girls were not the daughters of millionaires, but belonged to well-to-do families. They had been moderately well educated and well brought up."

Plan a Swiss Greenland.

A novelty of the coming Alpine season will be sleighs drawn by Siberian dogs on the Jungfrau and the Aletsch glacier. They will give visitors the idea of the appearance of ice and snow in Greenland. Six dogs are now being trained for the work.

Ban on "Heart Wrenching."

Flowers at graduating exercises have been banned by the St. Louis school board. The presence of posies "wrenches the hearts" of the poor, who can't have them, according to the board.

Cause for Alarm

Loss of appetite or distress after eating—a symptom that should not be disregarded.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, healthiest persons are moderate eaters. Nothing will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people contract serious maladies through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all who suffer from indigestion, or dyspepsia, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the understanding that we will refund the money paid us without question or formality, if after use you are not perfectly satisfied with results.

We recommend Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets to customers every day, and have yet to hear of one who has not been benefited. We believe them to be without equal. They give prompt relief, aiding to neutralize acidity, stimulate flow of gastric juice, strengthen the digestive organs, and thus promote perfect nutrition and correct unhealthy symptoms. DEMOCRATS WEARING OUT THE REPUBLICANS
 Presidential Nominations Effectually Held Up.

Washington, Jan. 29.—In the senate yesterday nearly the entire day was given up to an executive session, during which Democrats and Republicans contended over the question of confirming President Taft's nominations. The doors were closed twenty minutes after the senate met and the executive session did not adjourn until nearly 7 o'clock. The knowledge that the congressional reception was to be held at the White House last night alone was responsible for the fact that the senate did not remain in session until midnight or even later.
 It was a filibuster from start to finish, and not a single nomination was considered.
 At the end of the struggle the Republicans admitted that the Democrats had it in their power to prevent confirmations and had evidently determined to exercise the power. Many Republican senators were ready to yield to the Democrats and let the facts go to the country.
 It was an open question when the senate adjourned last night whether the Republicans would engage in another endurance test.

PITTSBURG THE SCENE OF RIOT

Sheriff's Force Fires On Inoffensive Strikers.

MANY BYSTANDERS WERE SHOT

Though Hundreds of Shots From Revolvers and Muskets Were Fired Into Crowd of Strikers, Not One of the Latter Was Injured, Brunt of Battle Being Borne by Spectators, Three of Whom Were Fatally Shot.

Pittsburg, Jan. 29.—One man was killed, two fatally injured and ten seriously injured in a fight between deputy sheriffs armed with revolvers and rifles, and strikers armed with stones from the Rankin plant of the American Steel and Wire company. All the wounded were spectators. Not a striker was injured so far as can be ascertained.

Hawkins Square, where the trouble occurred, was a bloody battle ground for over an hour, and the fight ended only when the deputy sheriffs, led by Sheriff Bruff, retreated within the fence of the big wire mills.

According to witnesses of the trouble, the deputy sheriffs were to blame as there was little provocation for firing on the crowd.

The dead man was George Kozley, aged twenty-nine, shot twice in the stomach.

The fatally injured were Fritz Beck, aged thirty-two, shot twice in the head, and Annie Leba, aged eighteen, shot in the stomach.

Shortly before 5 o'clock last evening 300 strikers emerged from a public hall in Fourth street after having held a big mass meeting, and gathered together in an orderly manner in front of the hall to pose for a newspaper picture. At about the same time eighty deputy sheriffs led by Sheriff Burgess Milligan and Chief of Police Barnett, left the wire mill and marched up the hill toward Hawkins avenue.

The picture finished, the strikers dispersed and were starting for their homes when they were met by the file of deputy sheriffs marching in military order. A dead silence followed, when of a sudden someone picked a lump of coal off a loaded coal wagon that was passing and threw it into the ranks of the deputies. In a trice the battle was on.

Coal, bricks and miscellaneous missiles of all kinds flying through the air mingled with the whistle of bullets and the rattling discharge of magazine guns and automatic revolvers. Screams and yells of rage filled the air, while men and women fell to the ground bleeding and moaning. In some places the pavements were torn up by the strikers in their frantic efforts to secure munitions with which they could protect themselves. Apparently beaten, the deputies retreated down the hill to the mill.

Fifteen minutes later the deputies appeared again. This time it is said they were supplied with shells loaded with buckshot.

Soon the battle was on again. Nearly every window in Hawkins square was broken and several persons in the houses were injured.

The crash of musketry, the rattle of buckshot against the buildings and the cries of men and women intermingled. For over a quarter of an hour the battle waged back and forth until, apparently having exhausted their ammunition, the deputies again retired to safety behind the high walls of the mills.

The scene of the riot is 4,000 feet from the mill where 300 men struck last Saturday, and is part of the main business and residential sections of Rankin.

George Kozley, who was killed, was a spectator and in no way identified with the strikers. Michael Katchmer, proprietor of the Katchmer hotel, said that he and his wife had escaped death by lying flat on the floor. The big hotel is riddled with shot.

BROKE UP BAD MORO BAND

Recent Engagement in Jolo Wiped Out Marauders.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The engagement between United States forces and outlaw Moros, in which Captain Patrick McNally, Philippine scouts, lost his life, resulted in the elimination of one of the worst bands of marauders in the islands, according to further dispatches received at the war department from Brigadier General Pershing, commanding the department of Mindanao.

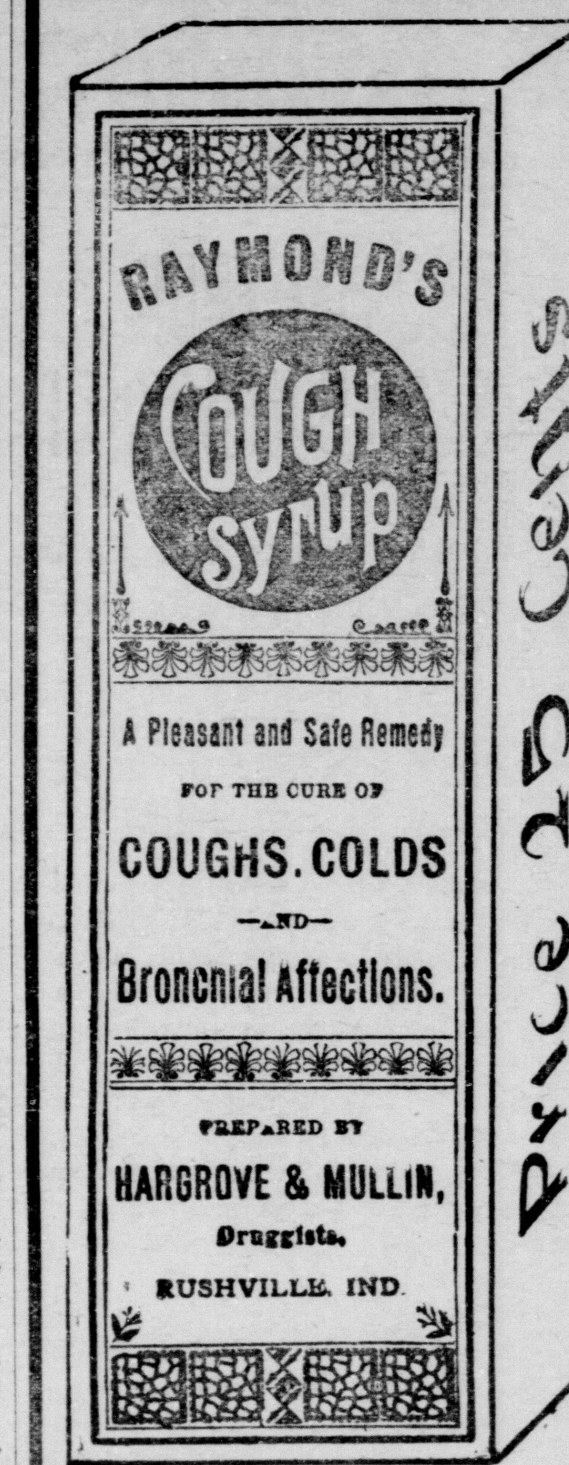

Between forty and fifty Moros were killed, according to General Pershing, in the attack upon their stronghold six miles from the city of Jolo, capital of the island of that name. Besides Captain McNally, six Filipino soldiers were killed and about a score wounded. The number of Moros wounded is not known.

The band which was defeated had been a constant menace to the city of Jolo and the United States garrison at Taglibi for months, General Pershing adds.

Were You Ever Gold Bricked?

If you are thinking of buying a suit of clothes and some one offers you a cheap, out-of-date suit for a little less than I charge for an up-to-date, all-wool suit, made to your individual measure, out of 1913 goods, 1913 model, a suit guaranteed in style, fit, workmanship and wearing qualities, and you buy of him, then and there you are gold-bricked.

I have nearly one thousand patterns of the latest all wool fabrics, from the world's best looms, awaiting your inspection and from which you can select your new spring suit. The prices for the whole suit made to your measure range from $17.00 to $50.00 and some even higher, but any suit we make you, no matter what the price, will fit you, will wear you, will look good on you and will please you, even if it didn't cost you as much as $20.00.

Come in as soon as possible, Easter is not far off, March 23 this year, and judging from the way my canary bird is singing and Al. Linville's shining up, spring is nearly here.

FINDS LIVE FROG SEALED IN BOWLER

Contractor Working Near Manilla Makes Unusual Discovery When Rock is Dynamited.

HOW DID IT GET IN THERE?

One of the strangest frog stories that has been heard in this section of the country in many years is vouched for by Monroe Goodrich, who engages extensively in road building. Mr. Goodrich relates that he found a small frog alive in a cavity in a large boulder which he was forced to dynamite during the course of the construction of a road in Union township, Shelby county, just west of Manilla.

The big rock was burst in fragments by the charge of dynamite and Mr. Goodrich was examining one of the small sections of the boulder when his attention was attracted by the movement in a hole not larger than a nickel. To his astonishment the animate object proved to be a tiny frog.

How it got in the rock was what puzzled Mr. Goodrich, as there was no opening connecting with the spot where it was found and it had been imbedded in the boulder for a depth of fifteen inches. There was a sand seam in the rock passing near the strange home of the frog, but it did not connect directly with the cavity in which the frog was found.

MUCH INTEREST IN I. & C. MEETING

few weeks, if the money matters are arranged, and our final answer will be wanted at that time. Up to the present we have never given Mr. Henry a positive statement and we have never made up our minds as what we really intend to do. All we have said is what we would like to do or have. "I will not go over the ground and tell you some of the benefits of the extension as that has all been thrashed out by more eloquent speakers than myself, but I want to tell you the plan that has been decided on—and it's the only plan by which we can succeed—to raise the money that is necessary to give the I. & C. free right-of-way."

Mr. Feudner explained the plan in detail. A petition, in order to call an election according to law, will require the signatures of 25 free-holders in each township. The tax of one-fifth of one per cent which amounts to $2 on each $1,000 net taxable property, will be payable in two years, four equal installments. Donators of land, he said, will be paid an amount equal to their subsidy tax for the right-of-way, but not in any amount greater than the subsidy tax less the value of the land donated.

Mr. Feudner pointed out that all citizens of the northern part of Rush county should be in favor of the present subsidy because they are next. He pointed out that the Indiana Union traction company was negotiating the building of an extension from Newcastle to Muncie, to make a short route to Indianapolis over the Honey Bee line, between Newcastle and Indianapolis, which they recently purchased, and in order to relieve the congestion on their other route to Indianapolis. He called attention to the fact that the next step of the I. U. T. Co., or the I. & C. would be to extend from Newcastle to Rushville to connect with the I. & C. so as to get an hour's shorter route to Cincinnati from Ft. Wayne and points north of Muncie.

Mr. Feudner recalled that Franklin county has to raise $38,000 in order to get the line, and that its citizens had agreed to get the money.

Because it would be of special interest to live stock dealers, Mr. Feudner said that a bill was drafted yesterday to present to this legislature, which seeks to compel steam roads to interchange with interurbans on car loads of freight of any kind. That's all that keeps them from handling car loads of freight at this time, he said.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the U. P. church will hold an exchange next Saturday morning at the Davis & Jones millinery store.

ADMITS THAT HE HAS "HEARD IT"

Newcastle Official Says Old Tale About Gasoline Cars on L. E. & W. is Dug up.

INQUIRY MAY BE THE CAUSE

The old story is afloat once more. As much as six years ago it was all settled, and a couple of gasoline motor passenger cars ordered by the Lake Erie & Western management, to be added to the equipment of the New Castle-Rushville division; or as revised, to run between Muncie and Rushville says the Newcastle Times.

This story, in part, is out again. Possibly the recent visit to Rushville by members of the state railroad commission, and the investigations which followed regarding the last of proper passenger and mail service between Newcastle and Rushville, is responsible for the present agitation. Whatever it may be, the report is in the air, and it has spread along the line, and even reached this terminal of time division. Mr. Wertz, the local agent, admitted Saturday morning that he had "heard it."

FINLY GETS IN BILL.

Representative Finly H. Gray has succeeded in getting his name in the omnibus public building "pot," says a Washington dispatch. Mr. Gray was not in Washington prior to the holidays, and when he came, the first draft of the omnibus bill was completed, but at the urgent request it has been amended to include an appropriation for a commodious Federal building at Shelbyville.
